Public Hearing Set To Air Fair Prices On 1968 Cane Crops

The US Department of Agriculture today announced public hearings on fair prices for the 1968 Florida and Louisiana sugarcane crops, and on whether the wage determinations applicable to field workers — which became effective on October 23, 1967, in Florida, and October 16, 1967, in Louisiana — should be continued or amended.

The local hearing will be at Belle Glade, Fla., on June 20, 1968, in the Holiday Inn, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

To qualify for payments under the sugar act of 1948, as amended, producers must pay all persons employed on the farm in producing, cultivating, or harvesting sugarcane in full and at wage rates not less than those determined fair and reasonable by the Secretary of Agriculture after public hearing and investigation, according to Sam Schooley, County Office Manager.

Another condition for payment is that producers who process sugarcane grown by others must pay prices for it also determined fair and reasonable by the Secretary, said Schooley.

USDA requests that all interested persons appear at the hearing to present views and pertinent data. In Florida, information and recommendations are sought specifically on the need for other skilled worker classifications, wage differentials between classifications of workers, need for continuing an apprentice rate for operators of mechanical equipment, methods of determining piecework rates for cutting sugarcane, earnings of sugarcane cutters, wage payment practices for time spent by the worker in the field pending reassignment to other work, and on the pricing factor used in determining the price per ton of standard sugarcane.

The regular meeting of the Glades Republican Club, Saturday, June 22 at 7:30 p. m. will feature legislative candidates, who will each speak 10 minutes, followed by a question and answer session, according to John A. Rogers, executive secretary of the club.

Members and interested guests are urged to make their reservations by June 18. The meeting will be preceded by a buffet dinner.

Market Report
There was a good run of cattle at Monday's market with prices pretty steady except for slaughter cows and stocker steers which were off about 25c.

Norman Edwards, Ft. Lauderdale, topped the market with a 35c calf.

A total of 825 head were sold with 65 percent to slaughter and 35 percent to stockers.

Scandinavian Group Plans July 4th Celebration At Marina

A group of 20 members of the Scandinavian American Societies of Florida, Palm Beach and Dade County chapters, attended a luncheon meeting at the Belle Glade Country Club, Sunday, to discuss plans for the annual July 4th celebration at the Marina with chamber of commerce President Jim Graham. Attending with Graham, was his wife Shirley and Avery Bass.

Other Glades area residents attending were Mr. and Mrs. H. J. "Andy" Anderson of Pahokee, who started the traditional celebration of the group here inviting Danes from Miami to their farm at the southern city limits of Pahokee on Hwy. 715.

Anderson recalls that the last group before the celebration was moved to the Marina in 1967 was 160-180 people. A much larger turnout is expected at the Marina this year.

The day long affair is open to all Glades residents, who might enjoy the native customs that will be worn and the fellowship with members of the group, said Erik Neilson, group spokesman. Folk dances are planned and an accordion player has been invited for music, besides records.

Food and drinks will be supplied through the Belle Glade Lion's Club concession at the Marina, according to Jim Graham, president of the club.

This year will mark the 57th year of our national holiday will be celebrated in Denmark.

Students Travel To Brazil For Summer
"It all started with a Lion's Club luncheon program in West Palm Beach," said H. Bunn McCall, whose son Howell, 14, will travel to Minas, Brazil, June 17, to spend the summer in a student exchange with a doctor of that country.

Colette Carpenter, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Carpenter, completes the exchange agreement.

In Minas the two students will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Orlando Frota, who have two children, age 13 and 15, who will complete the exchange this winter by coming to Florida for Christmas.

Dr. Frota is a physician-surgeon in this city of about one-half million, located approximately 1,000 miles inland on the Amazon River.

The two Belle Glade students have been studying Portuguese under Mrs. Maurine Gilchrist of West Palm Beach, who was the guest speaker at the Lions Club luncheon on the coast the day McCall visited there. Mrs. Gilchrist also spoke to the Belle Glade Woman's Club in March.

For many years Mrs. Gilchrist was a foreign service career woman for the U.S. Government in its Rubber Development Corporation in the Amazon Valley. It was through the diplomatic service with her late husband that she met the Brazilian doctor.

Mrs. Gilchrist returns frequently for vacations to Brazil and because of her good will missions there has been awarded the Stetson University Commendation for International Good Will.

Panel Asks Continuous Pressure For 4-Laning Of "Killer 80"

A panel of three visitors to the Tuesday night meeting of the Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club talked on the subject of the four-laning of "Killer 80" and brought out that even though there has been repeated publicity on the dangerous condition of the highway, Glades area residents still do not realize the imminent danger.

The three panelists were: Commissioner E. W. "Bud" Weaver, City Commissioner of District 5, Leffron Williams; and Pelton Morris, principal of the Belle Glade High School. All are members of the Canal Hazard Safety Committee, Williams is president.

The visitors each voiced his concern that before more deaths occur, we need to, as a community, let the State Road Dept. know how desperately this road is needed by writing to Jay Brown, State Road Dept. Tallahassee, Fla., requesting a new routing for "Killer 80."

"This highway is not only a means by which the Glades people go to West Palm Beach for a luxury evening, it is also the only way of getting our extremely ill people to the medical specialists they so desperately need," said Commissioner-Weaver, who went on to say it is a much needed road, on which some portion, "the death rate is eight times the national average."

The proposed new route has been drawn by engineers, and will be a continuation of Okeechobee Rd., in West Palm Beach, terminating at the County Offices in Belle Glade.

Harris Agency Attends Miami Convention

Belle Glade independent fire and casualty insurance agents will be among the 1200 who will gather at Miami Beach Thursday for the 64th Anniversary Convention of the Florida Association of Insurance Agents.

Among those from whom the Association has received advance registrations for the three-day meeting at the Fontainebleau Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Junius T. Harris of the Harris Agency, Inc., 125 S.E. Ave. E. and Ms. Katherine T. Harris.

Mrs. Wood Attends Annual Heart Meet

Mrs. Guy D. Wood of Belle Glade attended the 19th annual Florida Heart Association Convention in Miami as a delegate from Palm Beach County. She enjoyed the activities at the Doral Country Club Friday through Sunday and visited with her mother, Mr. C. E. Williamson in Miami, who had been ill, but was much improved.

Attending the physician's seminar also held at the Doral Country Club were Dr. Roy Brown and Dr. and Mrs. James Gray.

Cyclists churn it up Sunday during Scramble Races behind the Paradise Club on SR 80. Look closely at the second rider, he's catching all the mud thrown up by the leader.

YOUR MONEY

By Richard A. Poston
Savings and loan associations of the 19th century were neighborhood affairs, organized for the benefit of a small group of people. And the "officers" were, so to speak, amateurs... members willing to contribute their time and effort. As savings and loan associations grew, the need for professional, full-time management became obvious. As assets increased, people skilled in financial affairs and investments were needed, so that a large volume of savings deposited would be protected by sound management.

The staff of people we have gathered at Everglades Federal are professionals... trained, skilled people who have built a sound, financially stable portfolio of investments to make sure that your money is protected and can return the highest possible dividends. But we have also retained our "neighborhood" character... our identification with this community and with you as a neighbor. We know the problems and possibilities of loans and investments in this area - an other good reason for saving or borrowing from EVERGLADES FEDERAL SAVINGS and LOAN ASSOCIATION, 40 S. W. AVE. S. THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

One of the greatest delusions in the world is the hope that the evils in this world are to be cured by legislation.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

The chaos that has overtaken the French Republic is a grim warning to free men everywhere that anarchy, unless promptly and firmly curbed, can destroy the most solid structures of government and disrupt the most prosperous countries.

No excuse existed for revolutionary upheaval in France. In the last decade, the French economy has moved forward steadily. The French people are better off financially than ever before. More young people have access to higher education than at any time in the history of the country. Nevertheless, France has been torn apart by disorders.

Why? To be sure, France has tolerated a large and active Communist Party. As a result, many working men in France still are influenced and conditioned by Marxist ideas. But the regular Communist Party of France did not spark the explosion in early May. It began at the University of Paris and its roots in the anti-American agitation of leftist opposition to U. S. involvement in the Vietnam struggle. Only when the student anarchist disorders began to grow in size did the regular Communist Party organization order major strikes and take over the control of the disorders.

The anarchist groups that have been creating small-scale violence in France for over a year were not taken seriously by the French authorities. So long as the USA was the target of demonstrations, the DeGaulle government apparently didn't mind a little disorder and lawlessness. It earned the bitter lesson that a little strife soon grows into monster of strife.

In the United States, good citizens can only hope that governmental authorities and heads of educational institutions will learn from the French experience. The groups of anarchists and civil disobedience advocates in American colleges and universities are numerically small. Too often they are dismissed as insignificant at all.

It takes only one individual yelling "fire!" in a crowded theater to cause a disaster that takes a terrible toll of life. And it takes only a scattering of organized, violence-inclined groups to upset great universities and throw chaos into towns and cities.

Most Americans don't understand the conspiratorial mentality. They don't grasp that the anarchists and civil disobedience types think a long totalitarian line is to say that they are planning social war within our country. Most Americans think in terms of practical discussions and sensible negotiations. But the radicals in the universities are like the North Vietnamese communists at the Paris conference table — they believe in total war to the end.

The anarchists are playing for the highest stakes — the destruction and takeover of western society. The example of France shows how far small militant groups can go in creating havoc. The example of Columbia University, which has been crippled, provides further confirmation.

It is not clear what else the anarchists may be planning in the United States this summer, but they surely will not be idle. It is possible, even likely, that they will try to repeat the Columbia University performance at the nominating conventions of the two national political parties.

They may try their force methods as an attempt to demand political concessions from the convention delegates. On the college and university front, however, it is time that responsible citizens realize that they cannot just stand on the sidelines and deplore what is taking place. A writer for Barron's Financial Weekly has spoken to this point. "Now is the time for Barron's."

He attended Turkey Creek (Fla.) High School and completed requirements for his diploma after entering the Air Force.

His wife, Julie, lives on Route 7, Americus, Ga.

AIRMAN KINCADE
Airmen First Class Jerome J. Kincade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kincade of Rt. 2, Clewiston, Fla., is on duty at Bien Hoa AB, Vietnam.

Airman Kincade, an air freight specialist, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces.

Before his arrival in Vietnam, he was assigned to North AFB, Calif.

The airman is a graduate of Hartman Academy.

M-571 RUSSELL BENNETT
Master Sergeant Russell Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Bennett of Rt. 4, Plant City, Fla., and husband of the former Olive Butler of Pahokee, has been recognized for helping his unit earn the U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Sergeant Bennett, an air armament technician in the 21st Composite Wing at Elmendorf AFB, Alaska, will wear the distinctive service ribbon as a permanent decoration.

His unit was cited for compiling outstanding records in both combat readiness and training in severe weather conditions.

He also was cited for his participation in insuring the defense of Alaska and the North American continent.

The sergeant served in the Pacific Theater of Operations during World War II.

"One means is to withhold financial support from colleges which condone or encourage student terrorism."

College and university trustees are under heavy pressure from the Left. Radical faculty members, as well as the militant students, are threatening strikes and other forms of intimidation.

The trustees need to know that alumni and the general public feel very strongly on the subject of law and order in educational institutions.

At Columbia University the students who want to study and who oppose the radical rioters are organizing. Such students at Columbia and elsewhere deserve assistance from alumni and other interested students. Efforts should be proposed to get the views and proposals of these law-abiding students into the news media. As a writer for Barron's Financial Weekly has spoken to this point, "Now is the time for Barron's."

A free society cannot survive unless men of reason rally to its defense.

There was a type of grass that was cut while it was at four in the morning for Mass, and can speak only one hour a day. We walked thru here, but saw none. There were glass cases holding Royal garments of kings made of rabbit fur. There are 38,000 of these in the museum. In one very old Monastery there were seventeen monks who wore white, slept on planks, talked only one week, and got up at midnight and prayed for two hours.

Ed Doolittle was again the subject of modern education. Clem Webster got the session off in this direction by reporting he had saw where they were getting a thing in the schools called the "talking page." The young men can talk their lesson and the lesson talk back. Clem showed that one educator claims the talking page will do for education what the portable radio did for the Middle East. The only trouble with that statement, Clem said, was that he didn't know what the portable radio did for the Middle East.

But, anyhow, said Clem, this talking page fits on top of a school desk and is about the size of one of them three-ring notebooks all the students used to carry. It has lessons in it and talks the instructions. If the student doesn't follow directions the machine stops the lesson and reports the part the student missed. He said this story called the students would talk back and argue with the machine where they wouldn't with the teacher. He said he wasn't short this was doing the young men's manner very good. He had saw where they were fixing talking pages for adults and they were a heap of husbands that would be glad to have someone they could talk back to.

On to Santander and the Atlantic

We all started a three day trip directly north of Madrid to Santander, on the Atlantic Ocean. We stopped in Aranda de Duero for lunch, and to visit a Cathedral. The Moons came up here in the ninth century. With high hills, and long distances it seems impossible for an army to march as far as this. As we would come near a small town the first thing we would see would be a fortress or just a watch tower on top of the highest hill. Then we would see the tower of the church. Many cities, still have part of the wall standing that originally surrounded the city. The old houses were made of the clay, like the adobe houses we have in the west. These are falling down. Some were made of stones held together with mortar. These are also falling down. Now the buildings are made of the red tile building blocks — some with three holes that are long and narrow, or the larger ones with nine holes. Brick, as used seldom, as are the concrete building blocks that we use at home. All the roofs are of red tile. It is still to find the newer ones, as the very old roofs are almost black. As most of the small towns have apartments above stores, and each apartment except for a few miles of driving where the cliffs were solid rock, the countryside was beautiful and green. There were many trees completely full of white blossoms and not a green leaf. We learned these were almond trees. There were fruit trees with a lovely shade of pink and rose, but no one knew what kind they were, not even our guide. In the Cathedral we visited was a clock in a corner up about the second floor that had the head and shoulders of a man above it. Every hour when this clock struck the man opened his mouth. The local guide called it the "fly catcher." This building was started in 1221 and finished three hundred years later. The figure of Christ on the cross was carved out of wood, and had human hair and hands. All of these figures had the wound and blood on the right side, and the guide said only in Spain did they have the heart on the right side. The ceilings under the keyhole, and sometimes there would be many keystones in one domed ceiling Napoleon had destroyed the stained glass windows that were originally here. In one room were many large glass cases which held two parchment books written in the sixteenth cenblood and charcoal. There are large and small lions and deer. There is a canvas placed on a flat rock so one can lie down and look directly up to see the pictures better. There are thousands of these paintings, which have only been discovered recently. Nearby are other caves, which are very different. These have deep chasms, icicle-like formations, and dampness. We did not stay long in here. We arrived in the town of Santillana del Mar for lunch and spent many hours here walking around this old quaint town. It is unusual in many ways. The patron Saint is Santa Ithana, a girl from here that was a Christian and in trying to convert people was killed. She is buried in the church. In the courtyard of this church are Gothic columns with carved figures around the top. Many seem rather weird to us, as they have snakes, dragons, wolves, angels, lions, horses, doing all sorts of things. Then of course there are the figures of Christ and the Disciples. There are only eight hundred and eleven people living here in one hundred and thirty four houses. Some first ago William Randolph Heald came to this town and wanted to buy a house and waitress for a cup of coffee, she told me I would have to get it later in the Bar. I had been told this many times before, but this time, since we were about the only people eating here, I decided to go and get a cup of coffee. When I got to the Bar, I went out in the lobby to check and came back to tell me it would be sixteen pesetas. Later I learned that Mrs. Johnson, who speaks Spanish fluently, had the girl bring coffee to her table, and charged her ten pesetas. I enjoyed the hours we spent here, and it was easy to see that nothing has been changed in hundreds of years. We took many pictures of the flowers on the balconies, and no one was there, so I know we were doing all sorts of things. Some gifts shops, and these are always interesting. I have been amazed at some of the things our tour members bought and either took home or had sent — rugs, baskets, leather coats, and hats. Many made articles are tempting, but one must always plan on what to do with things once you get back home.

THE ACT, which was supported by the National Rifle Association, did not grow out of the attempted assassination of President Roosevelt in 1933 and here's why: The Act virtually outlawed machine guns and sawed-off shoulder arms; Franklin Roosevelt was shot with a cheap .32 cal. revolver; the Act did not apply to revolvers or pistols, this alone indicates no connection.

However, the fact remains that if a gangster wants to buy a hand grenade to an anti-tank gun, he can still do it.

We the people elect our leaders to lead, not follow minority rule (mob hysteria) into passing laws that only the already law abiding American citizen will obey.

Perhaps a little house cleaning isn't all that is in order at election time. Time to think about changing the decor from Modern back to Early America, when it was an individuals right to protect what was his — his freedoms were guaranteed by majority reason and not minority emotion.

Prizes Awarded In Golf Tourney

On June 5, the Ladies Golf Association held the last meeting of the season with a luncheon and presentation of prizes for the Ladies Handicap Golf Tournament held in April.

Kat Week, Tournament chairman, presented the winners with prizes. Bee Wood won 1st prize for low net in the 54 hole tournament. Her name was also inscribed on the continuing Golf Trophy at the Clubhouse, which has donated several years ago by the Bank of Pahokee. It is a huge trophy. Zelma Betzner's name was the first.

Others winning prizes were Louise Rhodes 2nd low net; Maggie Fanjul, 1st low gross; Kat Weeks, 2nd low gross; and Zelma Betzner, low putt. Louise Rhodes, Team Captain for play in the county, presented Amy Whidden a gift for winning the team individual points for team play in the Palm Beach County Golf Association.

During the business meeting election of officers was held. Louise Rhodes was elected president; Ramona Knight, Tournament Chairman; Edith Van Landingham, Treasurer and Secretary; Amy Whidden, Handicap chairman.

The group voted to raise yearly dues to the Association to $10.

The Ladies Golf Association will recess for the month of June, July and August with fall play beginning in September after Labor Day.
